

Attorneys Hunt Willis and Steven Corriveau have been named shareholders in the Raleigh law firm Martin & Jones, PLLC.

Founding partner John Alan Jones and partner Forest Horne are proud to announce that effective January 1, 2023, Hunt Willis and Steven Corriveau have become shareholders in Martin & Jones, PLLC.

Hunt joined the firm in August of 2013 and Steven joined in May of 2015. In each of their respective practice areas, they have earned a reputation in the North Carolina legal community for knowing the law, aggressively pursuing our clients' claims, and obtaining outstanding results year after year.

Hunt has tried many significant personal injury cases to successful jury verdicts throughout the state and beyond, and negotiated settlements in many significant cases before and during trial. Steven has grown our Workers' Compensation practice to new heights, frequently trying cases before the North Carolina Industrial Commission with an outstanding rate of success, while expanding his role into some of the firm's more complex litigation.

For 40 years, the law firm of Martin & Jones has advocated for the recovery of compensation for people who suffer wrongful injuries caused by the carelessness of others. The firm is made up of top-tier litigators who represent clients aggressively in negotiations with insurance companies and in court.
